MEN AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Secretary Lamar always has a big mail, but just now it is unusually large. The Secretary has a day and took a letter from N. street, and as soon as that fact had been duly recorded in the newspapers, the letters began to pour in. The number of people who want to be housekeepers, waiters, in short, servants of all kinds, is astonishing. Every mail brings to the Secretary a large batch of applications. Of course every one of the applicants is thoroughly examined, and he or she, as the case may be, is sent to the person wanted, who, in turn, makes pains to impress the fact upon Mr. Lamar's patient and long-suffering mind.

Attending the meeting of the Grand Chapter of Masons in this city this week were two brothers, J. P. and W. Taylor, delegates from a Southern State, but no delegates to the Tennessee Taylor of present political notoriety. Mr. J. W. Taylor, in conversation at Masonic Temple yesterday, said: "It is curious how much attention is attracted by the Taylor name in Tennessee. When my brother and I were coming up to the Alabama and Great Western road we sat opposite each other in the car. The conductor came through and looking at me and then at my brother, said: 'Well, you fellows must be brothers, don't you?' 'Yes, we are,' we kept Taylor brothers," "Indeed," exclaimed the conductor, "the superintendent is aboard and he is introducing you to the Taylor family. We thought you were the Tennessee Taylors. Well, sir, before we had gone ten miles everybody in the car was crowding around us, talking and asking questions. We kept the joke up, and, damme, if they didn't telegraph it ahead to Atlanta that the Taylors were coming to-day. So we went on, and then we had to own up, not wishing to have a delegation of politicians meet us at the depot with a brass band."

Miss Alice Fisher, who portrayed the Princess in "Nordeck" at the National this week, is a protégée of Senator Voorhees of Indiana, who takes the greatest interest in her welfare. Probably there is no more enthusiastic actress on the stage to-day than this handsome young lady, who only made her debut last January in the part which she has now made so successful. At the age of six years Miss Fisher made her first appearance on the stage at her home, Terre Haute, Indiana, playing "Eve" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Subsequently, while a pupil in the public school of Terre Haute, she was very fond of reciting at exhibitions, and with advancing years came a desire to go upon the stage. Her parents did not relish such an idea, but she insisted that she should give readings even for charitable purposes. But opposition only stimulated her, and after graduating she obtained permission to go to New York and enter the Lyceum. Miss Fisher went one evening to see Mr. Mayo as "Nordeck," and expressed to her friend who accompanied her a desire to play the part of the young lady, "Nordeck." Mr. Mayo returned her companion. "It won't take long for me to be called on to play that part," she said. "I know it," he replied, "and I am going to call on you to-morrow and tell him that I want to play that part." Sure enough, the next morning Mr. Mayo was surprised to find from what he afterward termed a "tall specimen of the West," and this name has since been frequently used by Miss Fisher in compliment to her patron, Senator Voorhees. "Why, my child, I am afraid," said Mr. Mayo, "that you are not fit for my company." "But when I come to New York again, don't fail to see me, and if opportunity offers, I will play the part of the young lady," she said. "I will be glad to see you," said Mr. Mayo, "and I will be glad to see you." "I will be glad to see you," said Mr. Mayo, "and I will be glad to see you."

It is rumored that the handsome Dr. L. M. Ruth, U. S. Navy, will soon lead to the altar a Miss Harris of New York city. There will be no less than six naval engagements which will terminate in marriage this month. All of the officers were on duty here last winter.

A novel way of disposing of an old love affair is that adopted a few months since by one of the brightest and prettiest of the Washington belles. The young lady was, as many hearts hanging from her belt as does an Indian brave of scalp. Wishing at the time to announce her engagement to her betrothed, she was in a dilemma as to how to do so, when she was informed by a friend that a young man, formerly well-known in Washington, had been invited to a luncheon to a few of her most intimate friends. The center-piece of the pretty spread table was formed by a young man, who, heavily draped with crape, rested the young officer's photograph.

The British Minister arrived at the Legation yesterday for a pleasant visit to Canada. The Misses West are expected soon to return from France, where they have been spending the summer. Mr. de Wever, the Dutch Minister, will shortly arrive after a four months' visit to the Netherlands. Colonel Emilio Frey, the Swiss Minister, has just been expected to return here some time during this month.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

BARRELL GOSPIN.

The full score of yesterday's game is not yet published. The Nationals played a variable "Comedy of Errors" yesterday with the largest audience that has ever witnessed that interesting spectacle.

Knowles has evidently recognized the necessity for taking a brace. At any rate he played in much better form yesterday than he has for some time, making two hits and no errors.

Henry had an off day. Schuch plays too hard in right field. He should play nearer center.

That low catch of Daley's was a grand one and deserved the applause it received.

Not a earned run did the visitors make. The Chicago wire has behaved in an exemplary manner, making no baseless claims, protesting against decisions merely by saying "K." and "out," and setting in a way that greatly contrasts with that of the St. Louis.

Green R. Morris has sent Beran, by Ten Brook, and Sally M. to Nature State Farm to winter.
